

Meva prides itself in the confidence in quality and service its customers and buyers enjoy when purchasing from us along with the execution of each individual design onto the product. We strive to convey the importance of refinement and elegance in all our products that turns a house into a home, office space into a productive and inspiring work environment, and a gathering into a celebration.

With this mindset, we at Meva are proud to announce a brand new class of designs and motifs intended to inspire awe and admiration. We have taken the most prominent cues from modern patterns and conceived new a contemporary path that blends those patterns with traditional and rustic styles.

We will unveil all new collections at the Fall 2018 High Point Market and invite you to celebrate a new style of contemporary design with us.

Each week, we will reveal a teaser of our newer collections by sending out a press release with one new product and description of the collection and its design inspirations.
