PROFITsystems' Mobile Point-of-Sale Application Provides Personalized In-Store Shopping Experience

Mobile point-of-sale app enables home furnishings retailers to differentiate from competition, increase sales

COLORADO SPRINGS, CO. – (October 20, 2016) – PROFITsystems, a HighJump product and leading provider of solutions for home furnishings retailers, today announced the release of its mobile point-of-sale application. This extension of the software provider's flagship retail management system, RETAILvantage, aims to enrich customer satisfaction by extending the omnichannel shopping experience to the showroom floor. The application empowers sales associates by allowing them to access historical customer information, product availability and create a shopping cart without leaving the customer's side. The mobile app integrates with RETAILvantage for real-time CRM and inventory data.

"Home furnishings retailers are challenged to compete with online retailers, and cutting prices isn't always the best decision for the profitability of their business," said Janice Johnson, product manager for PROFITsystems. "Our mobile point-of-sale application enables retailers to set themselves apart from the competition by providing superior customer service in the store, resulting in increased customer loyalty and improved sales ratios."

Features of the PROFITsystems' mobile point-of-sale application include:

- Check stock availability
- View item attributes
- Validate and update customer information on the fly
- Create a shopping cart and add items
- Review customer purchase history
- Natively written for iOS

"We're thrilled to provide our family of retailers a mobile point-of-sale application that provides sales associates with actionable information at their fingertips, helping them better engage with customers and build deeper relationships that will keep them coming back," said Joanne Gulnac, general manager for PROFITsystems.
