

BORBONESE FOR CALLIGARIS

The design of Quadrotta meets the iconic OP suede of Borbone

On the occasion of the Salone del Mobile 2025, the timeless design of Calligaris meets the unmistakable style of Borbone: an exclusive collaboration that celebrates the excellence, craftsmanship and tradition of Made in Italy. The two historic companies, pillars in their respective sectors - furniture for Calligaris and bags and accessories for Borbone - come together for the first time, giving rise to a new interpretation of the Quadrotta armchair, designed by the Archirivolta studio, an unprecedented project that combines the functionality and innovation of design with the refinement and recognisability of fashion.

Quadrotta, characterised by a design of contrasts, between the taut and the soft, between the minimal style and the mid-century, exceptionally changes its look: the iconic OP (Occhio di Pernice) pressed suede by Borbone emphasises the enveloping and soft line of the backrest in perfect harmony with the chocolate-brown leather of the more rigorous seat which, together with the bronze-coloured metal structure, contributes to giving solidity to the armchair. Embellished like an accessory by the Borbone label, sewn on the back, Quadrotta becomes a unique product capable of combining functionality, comfort and aesthetic value. Thanks to an internal structure with elastic straps, it is even more comfortable and resistant, thus offering an unforgettable experience of elegance and practicality.

Just as the “Connected Worlds” theme of the Fuorisalone 2025 invites us to reflect on how design can be a meeting point between different dimensions of everyday life, so the collaboration between Calligaris and Borbone goes beyond the simple encounter between design and fashion, celebrating the typically Italian ability to combine tradition and innovation, bringing out the value of a shared vision of beauty and sustainability.

The new Quadrotta armchair, and consequently the encounter between Calligaris and Borbone, represents an invitation to explore new connections, where comfort blends with elegance and functionality is combined with timeless beauty. A project that seeks to project itself into the future, sinking its roots in a centuries-old tradition in which every detail is designed to tell a story of quality, passion and design.
