SOUTH + ENGLISH EXPANDS MARKET PRESENCE WITH FLAGSHIP SHOWROOM AND NEW ART GALLERY AT 313 SPACE

High Point, NC – October 2025 – South + English is set to double its presence at High Point Market. The brand will showcase new furniture introductions at its longtime showroom, 214 E. Martin Luther King Jr. Drive, while also opening Art Tank by South + English, a dedicated art gallery, at 313 Space, Atrium A08. Market runs October 23–29.

The flagship remains the heart of South + English. The 3,600-square-foot showroom will reveal a dozen new designs across beds, cabinets and upholstery alongside original works of art. True to the brand’s ethos, every piece is made in the United States, giving designers confidence in quality, control and lead time.

Meanwhile, 313 Space debuts as a focused gallery for South + English co-founders and artists Palmer Linwood Smith (painting as Linwood) and David Ebbetts (painting as DJE). The gallery will feature original wall art as well as Art Tank by South + English creations — an innovative blending of art and furniture. Original art creations become integral to cabinet fronts, table tops and drawer faces.

According to cofounder Palmer Smith, “At South + English, art and design are inseparable. That said, we’re beyond excited to open Art Tank at 313 Space. It’s an opportunity for more presence in High Point and a dedicated spotlight for original works of art.”

David Ebbetts adds, “Our brand is predicated on an English sensibility and American craftsmanship. It’s integral to who we are, and it’s especially relevant today with tariffs in play. Domestic production gives us full control and ensures every design lives up to the vision.”

The South + English showroom is considered among High Point’s must-sees. In addition to new designs, it is known for its inviting atmosphere. This Market, events include a Wasabi Bloody Mary Sunday and wine with hors d’oeuvres served each afternoon.
