John-Richard Introduces Fall 2025 Collection at High Point Market

HIGH POINT, NC, [October 2025] - John-Richard unveils its Fall 2025 collection at High Point Market, highlighting a season defined by material innovation and refined craftsmanship. The collection spans lighting, furniture, sculpture, florals, and wall décor, each introduction shaped by an eye for proportion, texture, and artistic expression.

This season centers on the art of refinement, where every surface, form, and finish is considered with care. Artisans work across a range of materials including alabaster, crystal, porcelain, brass, and fine wood, achieving balance through texture, tone, and detail. Sculptural lighting brings focus to organic forms shaped with precision, while furniture showcases layered veneers, tailored lines, and finishes that bring warmth and dimension. Mirrors extend this sense of craftsmanship through dimensional glasswork and luminous metallic accents that enhance light and reflection within a space.

The same attention to artistry carries through the collection's accessories, artwork, and botanicals. Decorative accents display graceful forms with meticulous detailing, complemented by compositions that explore color, texture, and movement. Together they express a cohesive vision of contemporary design, unified by the creativity and care that define John-Richard.

The Fall 2025 introductions reflect the brand's continued pursuit of beauty that endures. Each piece demonstrates a commitment to thoughtful design and masterful craftsmanship, offering a glimpse into a world shaped by imagination and timeless appeal.
