Introducing Second Nature Peel and Stick Wallpaper

BRICK, N.J., April 25, 2026 – Tempaper & Co. announces its newest peel and stick wallpaper collection in collaboration with AD100 and Elle Decor’s A-List designer, Jeremiah Brent. The new collection Second Nature, available on Tempaper & Co.’s website and at select retailers, is being showcased during Spring High Point Market at IHFC - Interhall - IH109.

This marks the second collection launch between Tempaper & Co. and Jeremiah Brent, with the most recent collection earning industry recognition, including a Domino Good Design Award for its innovative approach and refined craftsmanship. The wallcoverings have been featured throughout Jeremiah’s projects including on his Netflix show Queer Eye, in numerous residential renovations, and most recently in the Bergdorf Goodman pop-up designed by Nate Berkus.

Once again, the new Second Nature collection brings premium aesthetics within reach, pairing mindfully crafted motifs with peel-and-stick wallpaper ease. The collection features five elevated designs, four of which offer textured finishes for a premium, tactile look.

"My new collection, Second Nature, with Tempaper honors the quiet beauty of details that might otherwise be overlooked, transforming them into meaningful elements of everyday life," says Jeremiah Brent. "The patterns feel like fragments of the past brought into the present: subtle, layered, and full of story."

Jeremiah is a host on Netflix’s Emmy award winning series, “Queer Eye,” a published author, and renowned interior designer.

"I love working with Jeremiah. Together, we continue to push the boundaries of peel and stick wallpaper, creating intricate motifs and textures unlike anything else on the market," said Jennifer Matthews, Chief Creative Officer and Co-Founder of Tempaper & Co. "Each collection is a truly a unique work of art."

Drift

Wane

Waning Botanical peel and stick wallpaper is available in two colorways: cream and olive.
