

BONTEMPI BRINGS THE 2026 COLLECTION TO HIGH POINT MARKET High Point, North Carolina • October 17–21, 2026

From October 17 to 21, 2026, Bontempi will take part in High Point Market, one of the leading international events for furniture and interior design. It is an important presence for the brand in the United States and a new opportunity to share its vision of contemporary living: a project in which tables, seating and complements interact to create cohesive, elegant and coordinated living spaces.

Following its debut at the Salone del Mobile in Milan last April, the Bontempi 2026 Collection makes its US premiere at High Point Market with a selection of key pieces for the living and dining area. Tables, seating systems, occasional tables and surfaces come together in a coherent design language defined by architectural clarity, refined materials and a strong focus on comfort.

The collection reflects the evolution of modern interiors, where residential and hospitality environments increasingly overlap and call for flexible yet distinctive solutions. Through essential forms, balanced proportions and continuous material research, Bontempi creates pieces that complement one another, shaping a unified stylistic language for the living space.

SEATING SYSTEMS

The new seating proposals explore comfort through enveloping volumes, soft surfaces and carefully balanced proportions. The Nova collection introduces a family of seating pieces defined by an upholstered shell with vertical stitching that creates visual rhythm and tactile richness. With a lighter, more essential approach, the Ariel collection features soft curves supported by slender metal or wooden structures.

TABLES

In the Core table, designed by e-ggs, structure becomes the defining element. Its concave aluminum leg adds visual depth and captures light in a subtle, dynamic way, turning the base into an architectural feature. The extension mechanism is seamlessly integrated into the design, ensuring smooth movement and structural stability.

The Luxia lamp turns light into a decorative element through a composition of glass volumes that diffuse a soft glow. The Argo mirror introduces a sculptural mirrored surface, while the Tessa sideboard explores the interplay between geometry and light through subtly faceted metal doors.

ELITE TOPS

Expanding its design research, Bontempi presents the new Elite Tops: a metallic-effect lacquered structural frame designed to house an inset surface in Supermarble or veneer.
