

Vilmers partners with three world renowned designers

Vilmers are thrilled to announce collaborations with three globally acclaimed design studios: Stan Joly, Böttcher & Kayser and Ian Archer.

These partnerships represent a significant milestone for Vilmers as the company continues to push boundaries in innovation, design and craftsmanship.

Each studio brings their unique perspective and expertise to these exciting collaborations. Stan Joly's avant-garde approach adds artistic flair, Böttcher & Kayser design with minimalist elegance and Ian Archer combines classic and contemporary elements. Each adding a different style and aesthetic to Vilmers' existing collections.

A fusion of innovation: Creating furniture that redefines style and functionality

Together these collaborations result in a range of products that embodies innovation, functionality and unique design.

The collections are available now in furniture stores worldwide as well as online, with new products released periodically in the future.

– We're excited to collaborate with these exceptional designers. We believe that these products will take Vilmers to a new level and will become an important part of our ever expanding product range. said Ovidijus Jalonskis, CEO of Vilmers.
